

ACTIVE vs PASSIVE

EVERY sentence is in either active or passive voice. In active voice the subject performs the action. In passive voice the object performs the action.

subject verb object
Commandos rescue teenagers (active voice) performer (of action)

performer (of action)
Teenagers were rescued by commandos (passive voice)
subject verb object

Passive voice is disliked because (a) the performer of the action is in the middle or end of the sentence, (b) more words are used, and (c) the performer is sometimes left off, which leaves the reader guessing. . .

Teenagers were rescued [by] Who knows ...? Prince Harry, Principal Skinner, Adam Spencer, the Canadian Mounties, Pink, Matt Damon or Carrie Bickmore?
